Five 11th century towns, built on Islamic principles in the harsh climate of the Sahara desert, have inspired modern architects with solutions for urban living.